

Skydancer Day

with Chris Packham & Megan McCubbin

9 May 2021 – starts 10.15am

Welcome

✂ Chris and Megan get us started

Hen harriers return to the moors

✂ A new animation by Lauren Cook, winner of last year's young presenter challenge, on the hen harrier's cycle of life.

Spring in the uplands

✂ Jenny Shelton tells us about some of the other birds that breed in the uplands, some resident, others returning from our coasts and beyond.

Our hen harrier nest camera

✂ Andrea Goddard on the story so far: the trials and tribulations and our hopes.

Rewilding Langholm Moor

✂ We hear from the people involved with the successful community buyout and their plans for the future and a new Tarras Valley Nature reserve.

A rewilding vision

✂ An inspiring animation from the Scottish Rewilding Alliance showing what a rewilded landscape could look like.

Sunnyside School, Glasgow

✂ Missing Thistle. The children who named this hen harrier reflect on her 'disappearance'.

And still it goes on

✂ Indy Greene talks to Mark Thomas about raptor persecution.

“A crime is a crime”

✂ Nicky and Simon Johnson from Hartoft in Yorkshire reflect on raptor persecution and show their brilliant response.

Championing the hen harrier

✂ Olivia Blake MP talks about becoming Hen Harrier Champion in a short video followed by a live interview, with Chris and Megan asking more about her passion for restoring the moors.

The hen harrier observed

✂ Great film of skydancing, with Tom Kane reading from James Macdonald Lockhart.

Get involved

✂ Gill Lewis, children's author, talks to Chris and Megan about Hen Harrier Action's plans for summer activities, giving everyone an opportunity to join in helping our wildlife recover from the destruction of nature in our uplands.
